

Concierge – Wine Educator

You can stop scrolling — this is the job that you’re looking for! Dry Creek Vineyard is hiring a Full-Time Concierge / Wine Educator. This position splits its time between generally being an awesome human being, holding down the Concierge fort and dazzling guests with your witty repartee and wine tasting jargon. This is a principal front-of-house position and perfect for a hospitality professional who prides themselves in crossing the i’s and dotting the t’s.

You might be perfect for this position if...

- You saw what I did up there.
- You have a secret desire to drink on the job.
 - Just kidding, you can’t drink on the job.
- You like to talk about wine and drinking wine. A lot.
- You’re kind of a Samurai when it comes to Hospitality.
- You have a strong opinion about the Oxford Comma... and get into heated internal debates about whether to sign off your email with “Best,” “Sincerely” or “Cheers.”
- You love to talk on the phone. Seriously.
- You have ever used “Wine Away” and made the “pew-pew” sound effect.
- “Happy hour” means nothing to you because wine tasting is an all-day affair.
- You fluently speak “I’ve got a walk-in, deuce on 4” and “Five-top seated on 8!”
 - Or any restaurant jargon for that matter. We think it’s pretty cool.
- You seem to find a wine opener... in every pocket of every coat you’ve ever worn.
- You get compliments on your “wine swirl pinky game,” and they are always outstanding.
- You have ever referred to yourself as “The Steph Curry of Hospitality.”
- You don’t work with “staff,” you work with a “team.” And... your team dominates!
- You prepare for three-day weekends like Hermione Granger prepared for the OWLs.
- You like signing up wine clubs so much that you have called yourself “The Clubinator” on more than one occasion.
- When you dine out, you find yourself trying to out-charm your server.
- You have a deep desire to bus your own table... out of habit.
- There is a “Sense of Urgency” sign on your kitchen wall.
- You don’t just charm guests... you make memories.

See, we told you this was the job that you were looking for. If you are the kind of wine professional that would thrive in a culture like this, please email us — we’re looking for you!

Send your resume to robertc@drycreekvineyard.com